Competition Format and Rules

Formato e regras da competição / Format et règles de la compétition

Olympic competition format

The Rio 2016 Olympic Games weightlifting competition comprises eight bodyweight categories for men and seven for women.

Men's events	Women's events
56kg	48kg
62kg	53kg
69kg	58kg
77kg	63kg
85kg	69kg
94kg	75kg
105kg	+75kg
+105kg

Each category consists of a single phase (final), which is made up of two parts: the snatch, and the clean and jerk. Each final may be contested in multiple groups.

Athletes may take three attempts at individually chosen weights in the snatch and in the clean and jerk. The best results in both parts are combined to produce a total result for each competitor, which determines their ranking.

The rules of lifting and for the adjudication of attempts are the same for men and women.

The Olympic Games events are individual and, even if a team classification is calculated, no medals are awarded.

Differences between the IWF world championships and the Olympic Games

At the International Weightlifting Federation (IWF) world championships, titles and medals are also awarded for the two individual lifts, the snatch, and the clean and jerk. At the Olympic Games only the aggregate of these lifts counts.

At the world championships, each country can enter up to eight men and seven women, while at the Olympics, each NOC has a specific quota with a maximum of six male athletes and four female.

Athletes who started in the snatch, but have no valid results, can compete in the clean and jerk at the world championships. This is not allowed at the Olympic Games because medals are awarded only for the combined results of both lifts.

Changes since the London 2012 Olympic Games

None.

Sport rules and procedures

Each athlete has three attempts to make on both the snatch and the clean and jerk. These should be on different weights unless repeating after no lift.

The barbell is loaded progressively and the athlete requesting the lightest weight lifts first. The weight of the barbell must always be increased by 1kg increments.

One minute is allocated to each athlete between the calling of their name and the beginning of the attempt. When an athlete attempts two lifts in succession, he/she is allowed two minutes for the next attempt.

Three referees adjudicate on every lift and the validity of each lift is decided by majority vote. Every decision is immediately analysed by the jury, who can decide to reverse it.

The athlete with the highest total result will be the winner.

Calling order

The following four factors, listed in priority, must be considered when calling the athletes:

1. The weight of the barbell (lightest weight first).
2. The number of the attempt (lowest number first).
3. The sequence/order of the previous attempt(s) (the athlete who lifted earliest is first).
4. The start number of the athlete (lowest first).

Tiebreak rules

In the case of identical results, lighter bodyweight (registered before the competition) gives a higher ranking. If two or more athletes obtain the same result and they are registered at the same bodyweight, the athlete who reached the result first in accordance with the sequence of the competition is classified before the other(s).

Penalties/disqualification rules

There are no penalties in weightlifting and disqualification only applies in case of violation of the rules.

Protests/appeals

No protest or request for correction is accepted.
